On the Nikos Stage, funny-woman Judy Gold will appear in her new one-woman play, IT'S JEWDRY'S SHOW: MY LIFE AS A SITCOM (June 23 - July 4), directed by Festival Artistic Associate Amanda Charlton. Following her success of 25 Questions for a Jewish Mother, Gold returns to the stage in this hilarious look at her amazing life through the lens of the classic sitcoms of her youth. With multimedia, original music, laughter, and love, Judy shows us how she balances family and ambition in a world in which she sometimes does not fit.

In a home-grown production, SAMUEL J. AND K. (July 7 - July 18) by Mat Smart arrives on the Nikos after a hugely successful Fridays@3 reading last summer. In this hard-charging play, Samuel J. surprises his adopted brother, Samuel K., with a trip back to his birth country of Cameroon for college graduation - but Samuel K. has no desire to face a place and a past that abandoned him. Samuel J. and K. challenges the traditional definitions of family and asks if a place we've only imagined can become home overnight. Festival Artistic Associate Justin Waldman directs.

Amy Herzog's provocative new play AFTER THE REVOLUTION (July 21 - August 1) makes its journey from the Festival's Fellowship Project last summer to the Nikos Stage, directed by Carolyn Cantor. It's 1999 and three generations of a radical leftist family meet in New York to celebrate the law school graduation of Emma, the family's youngest torch-carrier. A public revelation about her late grandfather, a victim of the blacklist, sends Emma reeling as the family begins to fracture. Shaken and betrayed, she must weigh her fierce politics and family loyalty to decide if the ends really justify the means.

A legendary love. A transcendent artist. Shakespeare's classic verse meets the driving, passionate rock of iconic singer-songwriter Jeff Buckley in the world premiere of THE LAST GOODBYE (August 5 - August 20), the final show on the Nikos Stage. Conceived and adapted from Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet by Michael Kimmel with the music and lyrics of Jeff Buckley arranged by Kris Kukul, an ensemble of fourteen singer/actors bring to life the lyrical beauty of two great poets set in a world of youthful angst, grandeur and grit. Fall for Romeo and Juliet all over again in this incendiary new musical.
